

This tab gives the user a traditional peptide coverage map. Peptides are plotted as blue rectangles. X-axis shows both the protein sequence and the residue number. This representation is incredibly useful to visually identify regions with low coverage within your HDX experiment.

Peptide coverage map

.pdf

Download

Below a drop down list and a download button to allow the user to get the plot in the specified format.